Ruwaida E. Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg | 11/27/2020

Have you ever heard of Ruth Bader Ginsburg but never knew who she was or why she was so well known? Ruth Bader Ginsburg was a Justice in the Supreme Court. She was the second woman to be served as a justice in the Supreme Court after Sandra Day O'Connor. But this is not what made her become so well known. Ruth Bader Ginsburg stood for women's rights. Ruth Bader Ginsburg wanted to make sure that women and men were equal.

One thing Ruth Bader Ginsburg did that stood for women's rights was how women couldn't have bank or mortgage accounts without having men co-sign for them. Without Ruth Bader Ginsburg women would still have to have men co-sign for them if they wanted to have a bank or mortgage account. Ruth Bader Ginsburg also worked very hard to be chosen to be a justice in the Supreme Court because there was a big chance that a man would be elected as a justice rather than a woman. Ruth Bader Ginsburg did not think that it was fair for a man to have a higher chance of winning rather than a woman just because he was a man, so she made her voice heard after she became a justice and stood up for women's rights.

Even though Ruth Bader Ginsburg was recognized justice she did have some struggles in her life. Ruth Bader Ginsburg's mother, Celia Bader is the one who taught Ruth Bader Ginsburg that being Independent and having a good education was very important in daily life. Ruth Bader Ginsburg had a horrible struggle when she was in high school. Her mom got diagnosed with cancer and after 4 years died from it. Celia Bader's death was only a couple of days before Ruth Bader Ginsburg's graduation ceremony which Ruth Bader Ginsburg was not able to attend. This was truly sad for Ruth Bader Ginsburg as she had loved her mother.

Ruth Bader Ginsburg had also created many quotes that are used as advice or should be known today. One quote that she had created that is well known today is "Women belong in all places where decisions are made ...It shouldn't be that women are the exception." This quote is genuinely true for all women which is why it is well known. Sadly, Ruth Bader Ginsburg died on September 14, 2020, but basically, everything that Ruth Bader Ginsburg did is well known today because it had such a big impact on women!
